

All candidate targets end before the query lookahead; event inputs obey the declared availability assumption.